THE LAW SCHOOL

HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

Boston College owes its inception to Rev. John McElroy, a member of the original Jesuit foundation in Boston at St. Mary's on Endicott Street. With the purpose of establishing a college of higher studies for youth, Father McElroy purchased a strip of land on Harrison Avenue, and on this property buildings were erected. The formal opening of the College was delayed by the Civil War, and for a time the buildings were used as a Scholasticate of the Society of Jesus.

Boston College was formally incorporated by an act of the Massachusetts Legislature on April 1, 1863, and was empowered to confer such degrees as are usually granted to colleges of the Commonwealth, except medical degrees. This single restriction was removed by an amendment to the charter, passed by the Legislature on April 1, 1908.

During the presidency of Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, S.J., Boston College transferred its site to Chestnut Hill in Newton, where a more extensive property, suitable in character and location to the foreseen growth of the institution, had been purchased. The four buildings already erected are acknowledged to be among the finest examples of collegiate Gothic in the United States, and visibly reflect the ideals of the founders and their successors.

The Boston College School of Law was established by vote of the Trustees in 1929. The ultimate realization of this project has been prompted by a combination of circumstances which demonstrated the urgent need of such a professional department.

The officers of the School of Law appointed by the Trustees are Rev. James H. Dolan, S.J., President; Rev. John B. Creeden, S.J., Regent; and Dennis A. Dooley, A.B., LL.B., Dean.

DOWNTOWN LOCATION

The Law School is located in the Lawyers Building, 11 Beacon Street, Boston. The building is centrally situated, midway between the State House and the Court House. The nearest stations are Park Street, Scollay Square, Milk and State Streets.

FIRST CLASS ENTERED SEPTEMBER, 1929

The total enrollment during the second year for both day and evening divisions was 122 students. The following colleges and universities were represented:

Amherst College	New York University
Assumption College	Northeastern University
Boston College	Pennsylvania State College
Boston University	Providence College
Brown University	Rutgers University
Canisius College	Saint Anselm's College
Georgetown University	Saint Michael's College
Harvard University	Saint Paul's, Dublin, Ireland
Holy Cross College	Tufts College
Massachusetts State College	University of Maine
Michigan University	University of New Hampshire
	Villanova College

OTHER LAW SCHOOLS UNDER JESUIT ADMINISTRATION

While a School of Law is a new venture at Boston College, there are many institutions of this character, under the administration of the Society of Jesus, throughout the United States, the benefit of whose experience and accumulated information will be available to the officers of the Boston College Law School. Thus the Boston College Law School is not without precedents to guide its course. The success attained by the law schools at Georgetown, Marquette, Fordham, Loyola, St. Ignatius, Detroit, St. Louis, Creighton and Gonzaga is a reasonable indication of what the Boston College School of Law may hope to accomplish.

STANDARDS

The standards for legal education, established by the Association of American Law Schools and by the American Bar Association have been adopted by the Boston College School of Law.

SCHOLASTIC REQUIREMENTS OF CANDIDATES

Students entering the Boston College School of Law, as candidates for any degree within the scope of the School, must be at least eighteen years of age and will be required,

- (a) To be college graduates possessing a Bachelor's degree from a college or university of good standing, or
- (b) To have completed at least one-half of the regular four-year course in an institution of collegiate rank approved by the Committee on Admissions.

A satisfactory certificate from the Registrar of the college attended containing a transcript of the record of study must be sent direct to the Dean of Boston College Law School before a candidate can be admitted to classes.

Candidates for the first degree, namely, Bachelor of Laws, must be in attendance during a period of not less than ninety weeks in the day school or one hundred and forty weeks in the evening school, and must successfully complete courses totaling in time at least ten hundred and eighty hours of class room instruction. Grades of scholarship, upon which the awarding of a degree is made, shall be determined by examination.

RULES GOVERNING ENTRANCE OF SPECIAL STUDENTS

Individuals possessing academic credit less than that required of candidates for degrees will be admitted as special students, subject to the following provisions:

Such individuals must be at least twenty-three years of age and they must advance good and sufficient reasons for the opinion that their training and experience have adequately equipped them to engage successfully in the study of law.

The number of special students admitted annually may not exceed ten per cent of the number of students admitted by the School as regular candidates for degrees, during the two preceding years.

DAY SCHOOL SESSIONS

The regular sessions of the day school will be held on every week day except Saturday from 9.00 a. m. to 1.00 p. m. Special classes, extra lectures and court practice sessions will be arranged at convenient times during the school year. From twelve to fourteen hours of class room instruction will be required each week. The complete day course covers three years.

EVENING SCHOOL SESSIONS

The evening school will provide the equivalent of the full-time course which is arranged for the day school except that four years of thirty-six weeks each will be required to complete the course. Nine to eleven hours of instruction will be provided each week as follows:

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays—3 hours; 6.30 to 9.30 p. m.

Thursdays, second semester—2 hours; 6 to 8 p. m.

Legal Bibliography and Electives.

ADVANCED STANDING

Admission to the second or third year class will be permitted to an applicant who, being qualified for admission to the law school under the general rule for regular students, has successfully completed the first or second year of study while in full attendance at a law school approved by the Association of American Law Schools or by the American Bar Association. The amount of credit granted for such previous study will be determined entirely by the Committee on Admissions. At least one full year of work will be required in residence at the Boston College Law School immediately preceding the award of a degree. No applicant will be admitted who, having previously attended another law school, has been dismissed for cause or has failed to give satisfaction in that school.

ADMISSION PROCEDURE

1. Those desiring admission to the Law School should communicate with the Dean, Boston College Law School, Lawyers Building, 11 Beacon Street, Boston. Application blanks and complete information regarding entrance requirements will then be furnished.
2. Applications are to be made in writing upon the official form.
3. Official transcripts of College records (and of Law School records, in the case of applicants for advanced standing) should be filed as soon as possible.
4. A personal interview or an examination may be required by the Committee on Admissions.
5. Notification of the action of the Committee will be sent to the applicant after the application has been completed.
6. Before attending any course, each student must be properly registered.

REGISTRATION

Students already enrolled in the School must register personally each year at the Registrar's office prior to the commencement of the school year.

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance at all classes is required. The faculty reserves the right to refuse credit for any course in which a student has been absent more than ten per cent of the time. No student while in attendance at this School shall be registered in any other School or College or in any other Department of Boston College without the written consent of the Dean.

EXAMINATIONS AND RATINGS

Examinations are held at the end of each semester on the work of that term. The following grades are given: A, excellent; B, good; C, fair; D, poor; E, failure to pass. To gain credit in any subject a student must secure grade C for recitations and examination in that subject. A student who in any year receives a grade below C in courses amounting to more than one-half of the work of the year will be required to repeat all the courses of the year. A student who receives grade D in any subject is conditioned in that subject and (provided he does not receive a grade below C in subjects amounting to more than one-half the work of the year) he may take the next regular examination in that subject. A grade E in any subject, or a mark below C in a condition examination will constitute a failure; a student who has a failure in any subject will be required to repeat the class-room work and pass the regular examination in the subject in which he has incurred a failure. A student forfeits all rights to make up a condition or failure after two years from the date on which the failure or condition was incurred.

BOARD AND LODGING

Lists of boarding houses can be obtained at the office of the Dean. All of these houses have been visited by a Committee of the Philomatheia Club and in each case the moral, sanitary and social conditions have been inspected and approved. The School reserves the right to refuse permission to students to reside in any house not approved by the Committee on Students' Residences.

MAIL

Students should notify correspondents that mail should be sent to street and number of residence or in care of

Dean of Boston College Law School, 11 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. Mail cannot be forwarded promptly if addressed simply to Boston College.

DEGREES

The Degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on students who have attained the age of 21 years and who have completed successfully the indicated work in the Law School. The course must be extended over three years in the case of students who attend the day sessions and over four years in the case of those who attend the evening sessions.

Courses leading to the degree of Master of Laws will not be established until after June, 1932.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

The case method of instruction, observed today in the leading law schools of the United States, will be followed in Boston College School of Law. The advantages of the case method over other methods of instruction are many. In an address delivered at the University of Cincinnati Law School on October 28, 1925, the late Chief Justice Taft spoke of these advantages as follows: "It (the case method) thrusts the student into the atmosphere of the controversy which each case presents and enables him in a concrete way to trace from one case to another general principles, the distinctions in their application, their variations and their exceptions, and thus in a dramatic and effective course to possess himself of the judge-declared law. It promotes dissection and analysis. It develops in a most satisfactory study the critical faculty and fixes by the illustrative method a knowledge of principles that is retained. It trains the students from the first in the mental processes they must exercise in the practice of their profession in the consideration of the actually decided cases where they must find the law." And the late Chief Justice then observed: "I think there are few now who will not admit that it is the only way thoroughly to learn our law."

Students are trained in the use of all the books in the law library. The library is open daily from 8:30 A. M. to 9:30 P. M.

LAW CLUBS

Law Clubs are organized for students in small groups of eight or ten members. Each club is under the direction of a competent leader who is a practicing attorney, and students are instructed in the preparation of cases for trial.

Directions are given for searching the law governing the case assigned for trial and practice is provided in writing briefs and in arguing the case before a Chief Justice. Two students are assigned as attorneys for the plaintiff and two for the defendant. After the trial the judgment of the court is given on the merits of the case, on the value of the briefs and the arguments of both parties.

All the students in the school are advised to participate in the law club work since this practice supplies what otherwise might be a necessary course in the law school curriculum on brief-writing and argumentation. The practical value of this training is very great. It teaches the use of the law library and prepares students for the actual law work which they must do later as practicing attorneys in advising clients about the law on disputed cases which may come to them. The study of law is intensified by the realization that even as a law student care must be exercised in protecting the rights of the client. The student realizes that he must not only know the law but be able to organize authorities on his side of the question in an impressive brief and then be ready to sustain his case with sufficient arguments to warrant a decision in his favor.

Inter-club competition is arranged and final trials are held before Judges of the Court who are invited to cooperate in this activity.

Law club meetings are held twice a month and each student is given the opportunity of arguing on at least six cases each year. The following law clubs have been organized.
